Can't Digest the Proceedings of the Pive and roubled With Pipe Breams of Horrible Machinettons for the Control of the District Attorney's Office,

Col. Fellows will not make his answer to the charges of the Committee of Five until Monday. This is because his assistants have been so busy that they have not been able to furnish all the data necessary for the a The reformers who was the Colonel removed and the reformers who don't want him removed are very funny people, and they're get-ting funnier every day. Vesterday members of the Committee of Seventy gave the story out as "straight goods" that the Colonel was going to be removed, no matter how complete his defence was. The story as told to THE SUN reporter by one of the committee was this:

"Billy Sheehan is responsible for all this busi-ness. He's the man who is behind Gov. Flower, and he is going to have Col. Fellows removed I won't say that the five young men who made the charges were used, but it looks very much as if they were. We had got the Colonel to agree to have a deputy Attorney-General try cases we are interested in, which was just the same as having a man of our own as District Attorney. Of course, that would perer do, and then these charges were brought. Now, Billy Sheehan is influencing the Governor to dismiss the Colonel and to appoint another Tammany man in his place. Of course no charges could be made against an untried man, and he would have the work of trying all our Lieut.-Gov. Sheehan is interested to save his brother, Police Commissioner John C Sheehan. He knows that we have a strong case against his brother, and that he can be saved only by having a friendly man in the District Attorney's office. What are the nature of the charges against

John C. Sheeban ?" "Well, I won't tell that, but they have to do with his proceedings on election day. The charges are strong and we can convict him, but beaven and earth will be moved to defeat us." In the Second district around Chinatown they have a name for stories like this. They call them "pipe dreams." There was another story told by the same man. It was that Assistant District Attorney Wellman had resigned his office so that he might be available to take District Attorney Fellows's place when Mr. Fellows was removed, and that De Lancey Nicoll had put the Five up fellows's place when Mr. Fellows was removed, and that De Lancey Nicoll had put the Five up to make charges.

These pipe dreams were not told to The Sux reporter, alone. They were circulated freely among the Seventy and the reformers.

Mr. Larocque when he was asked about them said, "Yes, that is what has been said for the last ten days by those who are on the inside."

By "inside" Mr. Larocque may have meant "in our midst."

"Cartain schemers in this city are behind the whole business," said Mr. Larocque. Sadness was apparent in his voice as he went on: "And those five young men have been made the innocent tools of the schemers. The rumor that an affort would be made to get Col. Fellows out and another man in was around among us ten days ago. We did not, however, believe that the affair would develop in this waythrough those young men, the honesty of whose intentions no one can doubt."

"Yes, that was known, too, long before Mr. Welling resigned. I believe that Mr. Welliman's act may be a step toward the end the schemers want to accomplish."

Mr. Larocque would not say anything about the Sheehan dreams errect that: "it's a delicate."

Mr. Larocque would not say anything about

Mr. Larcoque would not say anything about the Sheehan dreams except that "it's a delicate subject to handle."

Returning to the Committee of Five, he said in response to the question, "Then you gentlemen believe that the Five have simply been made catspaws of?": "It looks that way. Feeling hurt about imagined wrongs, they might early have been led to take the impulsive jump into this matter that the did."

Preble Tucker and Fulton McMahon said "Ha ha! Ha ha! Ha ha! "when they heard about this. Then they said "Preposterous."

"Why, how could anybody influence us?" demanded Mr. Tucker. "We talked to nobody before going up there."

"Thought transference." suggested Mr. McMahon, and they said "Ha ha!" again.

"It is not said that you knew you were being used as catspaws." said the reporter. "but you were simply made tools of."

"No," said Mr. Tucker seriously. "The whole thing originated with us—the five men who signed the petition. No one else had anything to do with it. If there was any influence brought to bear on us, we must have been hypnotized. It must have been by thought transference. We don't care what Mr. Larcoque or anybody else says. We originated the thing ourselves and we are willing to stand on the record. Why, we never any of us saw Mr. Nicoll. Ha ha! Ha ha! Ha ha! Ha ha!". There were more newspaper clippings in Mr. Tucker's deak than there were Friday. About two weeks ago it appears the agent of a newspaper clipping agency went to Mr. Tucker and by dint of great urging induced him to subscribe for clippings about himself and the Good Government clubs. As Mr. Tucker's name wasn't used largely, the sgent contracted to furnish all the clippings for $7 a month. He didn't count on this little Committee of Five business and now the agency, is takking about going into liquidation. It is figured that at the present rate Mr. Tucker's office will be filled to the ceiling in two days more with clippings of remarks made by the Committee of Seventy.

rate Mr. Tucker's omce will be filled to the celling in two days more with clippings of remarks made by the Committee of Seventy.

Mr. Tucker and Mr. McMahon were the only members of the Five who were in town yesterday. Mr. Willing laid aside the cares of State to attend the Yale-Hervard football game in Springfield. As he is a Yale man, it is presumed that he forgot temporarily the taunts of the Seventy.

Beventy.

Mr. De Lancey Nicoll was seen about the story from the Seventy's midsts. He said it was too ridiculous to comment on. Mr. Wellman went out of town in the morning. His associate S. C. Carruthers, said that Mr. Wellman had had it in his mind to resign for a long time, and had talked it over with Col. Fellows on several occasions.

There was some talk late yesterday afternoon of a movement on foot to get Lawyer William Travers Jerome appointed in Mr. Wellman's place. Then there wouldn't be any need of a Deputy Attorney-General. Mr. Jerome could prosecute the cases. Mr. Jerome has been an Assistant District Attorney.

The same authority for this statement said that Gen. McCook had refused the offer.

LIFE TOPICS ABOUT TOWN.

Mr. Lederer, who has gained considerable notoriety by reason of his matrimonial exploits, is a small man of rather dapper figure, with a closeclipped, pointed brown beard, and a quiet and unassuming manner. His marriage to Florine Newcombe was the sensation which had more than a nine days' run. She was an exceeding'y pretty woman, had an excellent position so-cially, and her marriage to the theatrical manacially, and her marriage to the theatrical mana-ger was bitterly opposed by her family. She has since become entirely alienated from her people, and it was said yester-day that she would marry again into theatrical life in two or three months. Mr. Lederer's pres-ent wife is rather slim, with straight, wellmarked eyebrows, sharp features, and a neryous and excitable manner. Both of the wives of the manager became acquainted with him at matinees. Whether they were the type of the American matinée girl who worships an actor and becomes stage struck through too much theatregoing or not is a matter of discussion.

It is not true that the managers of the New York theatres have entered into an agreement to prevent the sale of seats to college students for the night of Dec. 1, on which date occurs the great Yale-Princeton football game at Manhattan Field. A movement of this kind was started, but it was not carried out because the managers found that there would be no necessity for entering into such arrangements. The Saturday sales at the New York theatres are always very heavy if the attraction is at all successful. Indeed, the sale of seats for Saturday night is very often greater than that of three preceding nights put together, as theatregoers in this city make a special night of Saturday, and always turn out in large numbers, so that even if the students wish to attend any particular theatre in a body they could not be accommodated. Some of the theatres have gone so far as to question people who have applied for more than two seats for that night: but the law of supply and demand has come into operation, and it is evident that the students cannot find seats is large numbers. It should be said in justice to the college boys that the majority of the harum-scsrum, noisy, and rioting youngsters who tramp about the streets after the annual game, waving the colors of either Princeton or Yale, have no connection whatever with either university. This is particularly true as far as Princeton is concerned, as every student belonging to that college is obliged to return to Princeton and sien his name to the register in the college building before 3 o clock in the evening, under penalty of dismissal from the university. So the mob of youngsters who make night hideous with their noise, and who tramp about the town after the game next Saturday, may be regarded as composed almost altogether of pretenders. they could not be accommodated. Some of the

The great number of entries in the bicycle races at Madison Square Garden forced the management yesterday to make an important change in the programme. The original plan was to have the racing at night only, but the enormous number of 200 entries made it a diffi-cult matter to weed out the men, and it was decided at the last minute to start the racing early in the afternoon on several days during the week. It now seems entirely probable that there will be racing every day during the "meet." For the twenty-four hour race it will be necessary to divide up the riders into heats, and not less than twenty-seven heats will have to be run before the weakest men are weeded out. The business of running off twenty-seven heats is not a light one by any means, as only six riders can start at a time, and the winners of each heat will have to be pitted against one another in the finals. Mr. Frank Sanger decided to charge every starter in this race a $10 admission tea, with the idea of keeping out these who knew that they had little chance to win. The money thus collected is to be divided up among the winners of the race. In addition to this it has been decided to take a number of first-class. "B" men, place asahes on them, displaying the word "Pacer," and have them set the pace for all the races, so as to pull the amateurs ahead rapidly and make fast time in all of the heats. The newcomers will have to ride fast and strong to keep up with the pacers, and this will make a very important saving in time. The twenty-four hours' race will be in the nature of an international championship event. The first price will be $400 gold coin, the second $200, the third $150, the fourth $100, the fifth $75, the sixth $50, and the seventh $25. Added to this will be the amount taken in for the entries, which will be considerable. the week. It now seems entirely probable that

The contestants in the bicycle tournament are finishing up their work to-day at the Clifton race track, and will probably not do much in the way of riding to-morrow, as some of them are rather finely trained. Edwards, the English champion; Verheyen, the German crack, and Lesna, who is one of the best long-distance riders in the world, have been training under "Billy" Young, who has made a specialty of bicycle training, and they have been doing some extraordinary work at Clifton. The cracks are sure to show up in good form, as the report yesterday was that they were all riding in admirable shape. Zimmerman, the phlegmatic Jerseyman, will not compete in any of the races at Madison Square, so there will be a chance for the newcomers. The Jersey champion is without a peer among the racers of the world, though both Lesna and Edwards have of late made vigorous claims to equal powers with the American champion. Nobody need look for the victory of anybody over Zimmerman, however, as he has met every one of the foreign cracks on their own fields, and, though handicapped with many disadvantages, he has a marvellous record of victories to his credit. ers in the world, have been training under Ives, the great billiard champion, who has been as successful in his line of sport as Zimmerman has on the bicycle track, is wandering about town enjoying the fruits of his recent victory in a tranquil and easy-going way. He is to play his next important match in Chicago. A gentleman who talked with Ives at the St.James Hotel yesterday recalled the experiences of the the great billiard expert, in London. At that time Ives was not widely known, and when he tackled the game of English bil-liards and wentup against Roberts, it was looked upon in London as courting disaster. Both the present Roberts and his father have been considered the greatest billiard players that the world could produce. The game was new to Ives, but he went in pluckily against the British player, without much success the first two nights. As the second night drew to a close Roberts had a commanding lead of 1,000 points, and the betting on the Englishman was five to one, with no takers. It was known that Ives had not bet much money on himself, but on the morning after the second night's play he sent for a friend of his and told him that he believed he had a good fighting chance to win the match, and all of his money was placed at odds of five to one. He slept late the next morning, took a walk in the afternoon, and went to the game after figuring about how much he would be in if he won the match, and with a determination to whip his English opponent. Then he rolled up 1,500 points, and from that time on Roberts was not in the game in any way. It is a pity that billiard table manufacturers surround the game in this country with so much of a commercial atmosphere that the public is more or fact they are among the most interesting events in the whole field of sports in America. ed upon in London as courting disaster. SENATOR HILL IN FLORIDA.

He Says He Is Seeking Rest and Talks a Little on New York Affairs. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 24,-When United States Senator David Bennett Hill left New York on last Thursday night it was generally supposed that his destination was Washington, with, perhaps, a short run into North Carolina a day or two later, but he took the through sleeper for Jacksonville, and reached here this morning at 7 o'clock. With him was J. S. McEwan, the Senator's private secretary. They breakfasted at the Windsor Hotel, and at 11 o'clock left for St. Augustine, where they will probably remain until Monday. Then they will go down the east coast to Lake Worth. Senator Hill said that his visit to Florida was made solely for rest and recreation. He added: "While I am not sick by any means, I do feel the need of rest after the hard campaigning which I went through during October and early November. I find it hard to get over 'that tired feeling, and so have come to Florida for a com-plete change. This is my first visit here." Neither the Senator nor his secretary had read the morning newspapers, and neither had heard of the resignation of Assistant District Attorney

Wellman in New York. Mr. Hill was asked for his opinion on this and also upon the refusal of Gov. Flower to appoint special counsel to try the Lexow committee cases.

"Gov. Flower," replied the Senator, "alone is responsible for his official conduct. It would be unbecoming in me to criticise it one way or the other. I feel sure that he will do his duty as he sees it, and that, too, without fear or favor. He has nothing to gain by acting unfairly toward any portion of the people of New York, and I don't believe that he will. "As to Mr. Wellman's resignation, this is the first that I have heard of it, so I can't express any opinion as to its significance or its wisdom at this time."

"Some of the New York Republicans say that you have a loaded gun which you propose to fire into the Cleveland camp when you get back to Washington. It that so."

into the Cleveland camp when you get back to Washington. Is that so?

"Well, now, did I ever fail to discharge a gun when an attack was necessary?" the Senator said in reply. "What my plans are for the next session of Congress I don't care to discuss at present. In fact, I don't know what they are myself yet. I haven't thought much about it. What I do will depend largely upon circumstances, and circumstances cannot be anticitated."

stances, and circumstances cannot be anticipated."

Senator Hill arrived so early in the day that only a few people knew of his presence, and his brief stay did not permit any of the more prominent. Democrats in Jacksonville to pay their respects to him. Patrick Murphy, who was a doorkeeper at the National Democratic Convention in 1892, and in close touch with the Hill delegates there, was one of the first to learn of the Senator's arrival at the Windsor, and met him and Mr. McEwan as they came out from breakfast. The Senator recognized Murphy at once, and expressed his delight at meeting him here, and then, turning to his companion, said:

"Mr. McEwan, this is Pat Murphy of Florida, an attaché of the House of Representatives. My friends about the Capitol are his friends, and they assure me that he has often shown his friendship for me. He le a good Democrat, anyway. I know that.

Murphy's face lighted up, and he said in reply:

"The Senator is right, I am his friend. I have "The Senator is right, I am his friend. I have always been his friend. I went to Chicago for him, and I shouted myself hearse for him every time his name was mentioned in the Convention half."

"I was there, too," put in Mr. McEwan, "and I lost my voice and some of my character in the At this Senator Hill laughed heartily. Pat then said:
"You have many warm friends in Florida, Senator."

It will probably be a week before the Senator returns to Washington.

Mr. Simpson, Do You Think You're Really Fit for Excise Commissioner?

Three of the places which Mayor Strong will have to fill as soon as he assumes office will be those of the Commissioners of Excise. The consequence is that there is a lot of patriots who are willing to be dragged into these comfortable berths, and who are pulling wires to secure their appointment. Among them are Shiner their appointment. Among them are Snings John Simpson and George W. Wanmaker, both Republican district lenders. Cornelius Van Cott, it is said, will be willing to go back into the Fire Department as a Com-missioner should no place be found for him in the new Police Board. William Henkel, the gas house leader, has set his heart on becoming Mayor's marshal.

The Recount in Hudson County.

The recount of the vote in Hudson county was finished yesterday, and Justice Lippincott anunced the result at noon from the beach in the Circuit Court in Jersey City. The recount nade no change from the result declared by the Board of Canvassers. Justice Lupincott said he would be prepared to hear argument on Mon-day if any further proceedings were contem-plated, at the same time intimating that further proceedings would be of no avail. It is not probable that anything more will be done in the matter.

SEVEN CHICAGO FIREMEN HURT They Were Working at a Lumber Fire and a Burning Pile Fell on Them. CHICAGO, Nov. 24.-Seven firemen were infured, three of them seriously, while working at a fire last night in the lumber district. The men were in an alley, surrounded by blazing piles of lumber, and one of the piles toppled over on them. Those injured were: Capt. J. C. Goodrich of Engine Company 23, badly bruised, but not seriously; Frank Campion, pipeman, of Engine Company 18, right leg broken and injured internally, also cut in the hand and face: John Hannahan, pipeman, of Engine Company

John Hannahan, pipeman, of Engine Company
18, right leg broken, severe wound on the head, and terribly bruised; Cornelius Kiern, pipeman, of Engine Company 18, nose broken, body and least bruised, and deep gash in his head; James Cavanaugh, livutenant, of Engine Company 23, hands lacerated and seriously bruised about the upper part of his body; Herman Haas, pipeman, of Engine Company 23, face and head cut, but not seriously; John Sullivan, pipeman, slight injuries.

The fire, which caused a damage not exceeding $3,900, occurred in the yards of John O'Brien, Throop and Lumber streets. The possibility of a repetition of last summer's fire in the lumber district prompted the Fire Marshal on the ground to call for reenforcements. The fire was practically out when a pile of lumber that was blazing at the bottom fell over on the seven firemen. They were fighting the blaze from the ground, and the amoke was so intense that they could not see their peril. The pile was forty feet high. The work of rescue was swift. Capt, Goodrich and Lieut Cavanaugh were the first once reached. Hannahan was the last one taken out.

The fireboat Yosemite stuck its bow against taken out.

The fireboat Yesemite stuck its bow against the blazing shingle pile and caught fire. The deck was all ablaze when the tug Geyser threw an anchor line to it and pulled it away.

BUCKS IN HARD LUCK. They Locked Horne While Fighting and Then a Tree Fell on Them.

SCRANTON, Nov. 24 .- While still hunting for deer in a large tract of second-growth timber on Dutch Mountain, Enos C. Boughton of Lopez tewnship heard a loud snorting of deer in a vindfall. On clambering to the top of a pile of fallen trees, Mr. Boughton witnessed the most ence of thirty-eight years in the woods of Sullivan county.

In an open space just beyond the windfall two bucks with locked antiers were on their knees. A dead tree tix or seven inches in diameter had fallen acass their horns, and their noses were pressed to the ground by the weight. The bucks stood on their hind legs, and were straining every nerve and muscle in a vain of fort to throw the log from their horns. Near the bucks two does were stamping and snorting in a state of great unessiness. They caught aight of the hunter and went bounding away.

At his approach the bucks struggled desper-At his approach the bucks struggled desperately to lift the tree from their antiers. It was useless labor, however. The noor brutes were covered with perspiration and the ground about them was full of hoof prists, showing that the pugnacious animals had ought for some time before the falling tree had anoth them.

Mr. Boughton decided to give the bucks a chance for their lives. He pried and propped the fallien tree luch by ich, and the bucks threshed and groaned. While he was laboring to release the unitucky animals, the does drew mear, took a furtive gland at him, and then cantered out of sight agen. Mr. Boughton succeeded after a while in liting the tree high enough, and the bucks imaediately arose to their feet, braced themselves and began to pull like brawny fellows in a tug-f-war. They were pugnacions he longer, and they snorted and puffed and yanked, but to no urpose.

Once more the annious due showed up, but only for a moment. The buck bleated at sight of them, and tried its vain tofoliow. Curving their nocks they walked around in a circle side by side, like a yoke of unbrown steers. Then they straightened out agains and pulled and yanked some more. One of the bucks got down on his knees, and the other sted upon decreted himself to the utmost to sprig their antiers loose. Then they reversed, it the horns remained firm and tight. The acks showed he desire to fight; their whole atmitten was fixed on trying to separate. Mr. Bighton waited, intending to shoct one of the takes as soon as they had broken away from eachiner.

The fighters continued to struck for freedom. The fighters continued to struck for resedem twisting and turning and pulling there being no perceptible utflerence in the weight, sine and strongth. All of a sudden ear antiers became unicoked, and away they ent over log and stumps at a break-neck spee I had come and strongth. All of a sudden ear antiers became unicoked, and away they ent over log and stumps at a break-neck spee I thad come ately to lift the tree from their antiers. It was
